Erectile Dysfunction

Erectile dysfunction can be an embarrassing issue and difficult to talk about or seek help.

Erectile dysfunction or Impotence can be the result of psychological or physical causes can occur as the result of the ageing process. There are many treatment options and clinical pathways available with great success for the majority of men.

At 3fivetwo, our team of Consultant Urologists and G.U.M Specialists offer a confidential service which will be individually tailored to your needs to include:

- Assessment of condition, normal sexual function, treatment options and expectations during & after treatment
- A comprehensive health evaluation including blood and hormone testing
- An individualised treatment programme including lifestyle advice to help achieve satisfactory erectile function

- Referral to an appropriate medical specialist, if required

We encourage men to take the first step and schedule an evaluation with one of our expert and dedicated consultants.
